CHARACTER HISTORY

Luc Lambour was born into a noble family of High Elves, known for their fierce loyalty and unwavering dedication to the elven military. Growing up, Luc was groomed to follow in his family's footsteps and become a skilled scout, tasked with patrolling the borders of the elven kingdom and defending it against external threats. He excelled in his training and quickly rose through the ranks, earning the respect of his peers and commanders alike. However, Luc's seemingly perfect life took a dark turn when he succumbed to temptation and cheated on his wife with a lowly kitchen goblin. His infidelity was soon discovered, causing a scandal that brought shame upon his family and jeopardized his position in the military. With his reputation in ruin, and his wife threatening to leave him, Luc made the drastic decision to flee the kingdom with his young daughter, Crystal, in tow. Pursued by his angry in-laws, he escaped to the remote and uncharted island of Taldora, where he hoped to start a new life far from the prying eyes of the elven nation. Despite the dangers and uncertainties that awaited him, Luc was determined to make a fresh start and redeem himself in the eyes of his family and his people. With Crystal by his side and his scout training at his disposal, he set out to explore the vast wilderness of the island and carve out a new home for himself and his daughter.
